DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed 6/13/03 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132 because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132 states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: "ballistic plates comprising armor materials selected from the group consisting ceramics, metals, and glass reinforced plastics designed to stop bullets".

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 3. Claims 7-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. There is inconsistency between the preamble and portions in the body of the claims. In the preamble of claims 7 and 17 applicant has defined an "armored system" and in the dependant claims 8-16 and 18-22 there are references back to "the arrangement". Applicant must clarify the clam language. In claim 20, the phrases "said bullet" and "said military ballistic threats" lack proper antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- Claims 2-18, and 20-22 as best understood are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Boyce et al. Boyce et al shows the use of an armored vest (12) having a front and back ballistic plates (12a, 12b). The front ballistic plate is supported by the back ballistic plate through a load transferring mechanism (48,49) attached between upper sections of the front and back plates and a ledge (see Figs. 4 and 5) of the back plate. The back plate has attachment mechanisms (22) to attach to the rear of an occupant's seat. Bocye et al shows the use of an extended section (the downward convex section shown in Figure 3) of the front plate and an extended section (14) of the back plate for resting on the vehicle seat. Bocye et al. further discloses the use of vehicle attachment points, as shown in Figure 6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 7. Claim 19 as best understood is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Boyce et al. Boyce et al., shows all the teachings of the claimed invention except the use of plates formed from a glass reinforced plastics. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the plastic plates of Boyce et al, with glass reinforced plates since applicant has not disclosed that glass reinforced plastics solves any stated problem and it appears that the rigid plastics of Boyce et al. would perform equally well.

Response to Arguments

8. In response to applicant's argument that "Boyce et al solves a different problem" and the Boyce invention is for use in restraint systems, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. The examiner is of the opinion that the rigid plates of Boyce et al. do in fact function as a "ballistic plate" so far as defined by the claimed invention. The rigid plates would in fact stop some high velocity projectiles as the applicant has not clearly defined "high velocity projectiles". In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO Art Unit: 3636

MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing
